Public-Sector Solutions Offers the Latest Technology to Tackle CAFR and GASB 34

Public-Sector Solutions (Falls Church, VA) will integrate technology developed specifically to tackle the challenges for the increasing complexity of government financial reporting, CAFR and GASB mandates and standards. "This latest package we have added to our already strong financial suite demonstrates our drive to implement real world solutions that work for local government." said Maurice Giguere, VP of Sales at Public-Sector Solutions. The new reporting and analysis suite is tailored to meet the new GASB standards, all state CAFR mandates, and analyze performance. Public-Sector Solutions is the first company to integrate this new technology into its financial and procurement suite.

Latest Modules

Accountants use MIE Statement Builder™ for building reports. Statement Builder creates reports for CAFR, federal, regulatory, and statutory reports. It also provides an ad-hoc capability to build your own reports. The report repository contains the CAFR reports that come ready to run. No programming is needed for them to place your data into statements in the correct format. As new reports are added to the repository, such as a new compliance report, they are automatically provided to customers as part of customer support services. Statement Builder can also be used by auditors.

Budget analysts and program managers use MIE Budget and Performance Manager™ to quickly review meaningful information. They no longer have to wade through volumes of data. Instead they can see reliable, actionable, relevant, and meaningful information and analysis. Budgetary, actual, and performance information is in one place. Users can see multiple prior year amounts as well as forecasts. Program results can be viewed at either full cost or net costs (matched with program revenues). Many other best practice reviews and reports come with the Budget and Performance Manager report repository to take users from data, to information, to insight.
